

Author License Agreement

This notification concerns the license for this purpose between you and the Association for the Advancement of Restorative Medicine (AARM). Please note that you will retain the copyright in your work and please take a time to read all the terms of this license.

By submitting your article to the Journal of Restorative Medicine, you and all co-authors of your article agree to the terms of this license. You do not need to fill out a copyright form for confirmation.

By submitting your article to the Journal of Restorative Medicine you grant AARM the exclusive right to both reproduce and/or distribute your article (including the abstract) throughout the world in electronic, printed or any other medium, and to authorize others (including Reproduction Rights Organizations such as the Copyright Licensing Agency and the Copyright Clearance Center, and other document distributors) to do the same. You agree that we may publish your article, and that we may sell or distribute it, on its own, or with other related material.

By submitting your article for publication to the Journal of Restorative Medicine, you have warranted that the article is your original work, has not previously been published, and is not currently under consideration by another publication. You also warrant that the article does not, to the best of your knowledge, contain anything that is libelous, hazardous, illegal or infringes anyone's copyright or other rights. If the article contains material that is someone else's copyright, you warrant that you have obtained the unrestricted permission of the copyright owner to use the material and that the material is clearly identified and acknowledged in the text.

In return AARM undertakes to respect your rights as the author(s). We will ensure that your name(s) is/are always clearly associated with the article and, while you do allow us to make necessary editorial changes, we will not make any substantial alterations to your article without consulting you.

The Copyright in the article remains yours. You also retain the right to use your own article (provided you acknowledge the published original in standard bibliographic citation form) in the following ways, as long as you do not sell it in ways that would conflict directly with AARM's efforts to disseminate it through the Journal of Restorative Medicine.

1. You are free to use the manuscript version of your article for internal, educational, or other purposes of your own institution or company;
2. You may use the article, in whole or in part, as the basis for your own further publications or spoken presentations
3. You will have the right to mount the final version of your article as published by AARM on your own, your institution's, company's or funding agency's website provided that the Journal of Restorative Medicine is acknowledged.

User rights

The publisher will apply the Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial-NoDerivative Works 4.0 International License (CC-BY-NC-ND) to the Article where it publishes the Article in the journal on its online platforms on an Open Access basis.

The CC-BY-NC-ND license allows users to copy and distribute the Article, provided this is not done for commercial purposes and further does not permit distribution of the Article if it is changed or edited in any way, and provided the user gives appropriate credit (with a link to the formal publication through the relevant DOI), provides a link to the license, and that the licensor is not represented as endorsing the use made of the work. The full details of the license are available at <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-nd/4.0/>.

Association for the Advancement of Restorative Medicine
P.O. Box 874, Montpelier, VT 05601